MISS MUCH-AFRAID

The Fifth of a New Series of "Anne" Stories

By L. M. Montgomery, Author of "Anne of Green Gables"

"M SO TIRED," said Cousin Ernestine Rugle dropping with a sigh into her chair at the supper table of Anne Shirley's boarding house. Cousin Ernestine always sat down to a meal with a sigh.

Cousin Ernestine had walked in from Lowvale that afternoon for a visit to Mrs. Captain MacComber and Mrs. Lincoln Mac-Lean... more commonly known as Aunt Kate and Aunt Chatty... who kept the boarding house. It cannot be said that either of the aunts welcomed her very heartily in spite of the sacred ties of rela-tionship. Cousin Ernestine was not an exhibitating person, being one of those un-fortunates who are constantly worrying, not only about their own affairs but every-bedy else's as well, and will not give them-selves or others any rest at all. The very look of her, Rebecca Dew declared, made you feel that life was a vale of tears, Certainly Cousin Ernestine was not beauti-ful and it was very doubtful if she ever had been. She had a dry pinched little face, faded watery blue tyes, several badly placed moles, and a whining voice. She wore a justy black dress and a decrepit neck-plece of Hudson seal which she would not remove at the supper-table because she was afraid of draughts. Captain MacComber and Mrs. Lincoln Mac-at the supper-table because she was arran of draughts.

Rebecca Dew, household factorum at the boarding house, generally sat at table with the family. But not when Cousin Ernestine was there. Rebecca always declared she couldn't "savour her vittles" when "that old kill-joy" was there. She preferred to "cut her bite" in the kitchen but that did not research her from "saving her say" while her bite" in the kitchen but that did not prevent her from "saying her say" while she waited on the table.

"Likely life the spring getting in your bones," she remarked unsympathetically.

"I hope it's only that, Miss Dew. But I'm fraid I'm like poor Mrs. Oliver Gage. She ate mushrooms last summer but I'm afraid there musta been a toadstool among them. The poison went all through her cistern. She's never felt the same since."

"But you haven't been eating mushrooms as early as this?" said Aunt Chatty.
"No, but I'm afraid I've et somethin, elnse. Don't try to cheer me up, Charlotte. You mean well but it ain't no use. I've been through too much. Are you sure there ain't a spider in that cream-jug, Katherine? I'm afraid I saw one when you poured my cup

We never have spiders in our creamjugs," said Rebecca Dew ominously, and slammed the kitchen door.

slammed the kitchen door.
"Mebbee it was only a shadder," said Cousin Ernestine, "My eyes ain't what they were. I'm afraid I'll soon be blind.
That reminds me... I dropped in to see Martha MacKay this afternoon and she was feeling feverish and all out in some kind afraid David wasn't a very nice man in Anne Shirley caught Aunt Chatty's eye and laughed before she could prevent her-self. Cousin Ernestine looked at her self. Cousin Ernestine looked at her disapprovingly.

"I've heard you were a great girl to laugh. Well, I hope it'll last but I'm afraid it won't. I'm afraid you'll find out life is a melancholy business. Ah well, I was young once myself."

"Were you really now?" queried Rebecca Dew sarcastically, bringing in the muffins. "Seems to me you must always have been afraid to be young. It takes courage, I can tell you that, Miss Bugle."

"Rebecca Dew has such an odd way of saying things," complained Cousin awful irreverent. He preaches prett/fair sermons but I'm afraid what he said of Elijah the Tidbit last. Sunday that he'

far too liberal in his views of the Bible.
"I see by the papers that he married
Peter Ellis and Fanny Bugle last week,
ald Aunt Chatty.
"Ah, yes. I'm afraid that'il be a case of marrying in haste and repenting at leisure They've only known each other three years. I'm afraid Peter'il find out tha fine feathers don't make fine birds. I'd years. I'm afraid Peter'll find out that fine feathers don't make fine birds. I'r afraid Fanny's very shiftless. She iron her table napkins on the right side firs and only. There was Fanny's aunt Elizinow...she was a thorough woman. Whe she was in mourning she always wor black nightgowns. Said she felt as bay Rebecca Dew, bringing in the pear preserves and the layer cake.

"Where is Mrs. Lily Hunter this winter?" asked Aunt Chatty.
"Se's been spending it with her son in San Francisco and I'm awful afraid there'il be another earthquake afore she gits out of it. If she does she'il likely try to smuggle and have trouble at the border. If it ain't one thing it's another when you're travelling. My cousin Jim Bugle spent the winter in Florida. I'm afraid he's getting rich and worldly. I said to him before he went, sez I... I remember it was the might the Coleman's dog died., or was it now?... yes, it was ... 'Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall,' sez I. His daughter's teaching over in the Bugle Road school and she can't make up her mind which of her beaux over in the Bugle Road school and she can't make up her mind which of her beaux to take. There's one thing I can assure you of, Mary Annetth, sez I, 'and that is you'll never get the one you love heat. So you'd better take the one as loves you... If you can be sure he does.' I hope she'll make a better choice than Jessie Chipman did. I'm afraid she's just going to marry Lorne Weston because he was always round. 'Is that what you've picked out.' I sez to her. 'Ilis brother died of galloping consumption and he looks as if he would, consumption and he looks as if he would,

too,"
"How encouraging you always are," said Rebecca Dew, bringing in a plateful of macaroons.

"Can you tell me," said Cousin Ernestine, taking a second helping of pears, "if a calceolaria is a flower or a disease?"
"A flower," said Aunty Chatty.

Cousin Ernestine looked a appointed. little dis-

. ++++++

"Well, whatever it is, Sandy Hughes' widow has got it. I heard her teiling her sister in church last Sunday she had a calceolaria at last. Your geraniums are dreadful scraggy, Charlotte. I'm afraid you don't fertilize them properly. Mrs. Sandy's gone out of mourning and poor Sandy only dead four years. Ah well, the dead are soon forgotten. My sister were crepe for her husband twenty-five years.

"Did you know your placket was open."

"Did you know your placket was open," said Rebecca, setting a cocoanut ple before add Rebecca, setting a cocoanut pie before Aunt Kate.

"I haven't time to be always staring at myself in the glass," said Cousin Ernestine acidly. I s'pose you saw old Alec Crowdy's death last week in the paper? His wife died two years ago litraily harried to death, poor creetur. They say he was awful lonely after she died but I'm afraid that's too good to be true. And I'm afraid they're not through with their troubles with him yet even if he is buried. I hear he didn't make a will and I'm afraid ther'll be awful ruestions over the salate." tions over the estate.

"Ah, poor Jane! Shea just pining away mysteriously. Something's the matter with her. I'm afraid it'll turn out to be an alio. What's Rebeca: Dew laughing like a hyenus out in the kitchen for? I'm afraid you'll have her on your hands yel. There's an awful lot of weak minds among the

"I hear Thyra Cooper has a baby," said Aunt Chatty.

"Ab, yes, poor little soul. Only one, thank mercy. I was afraid it would be twins. Twins run in the Coopers."

"Thyra and Ned are such a nice young couple," said Aunt Kate, as if determined to salvage something from the wreck of the universe. But Cousin Ernestine would not admit that there was any baim in Giberel, much less in Lowvale.

much leas in Lowale.

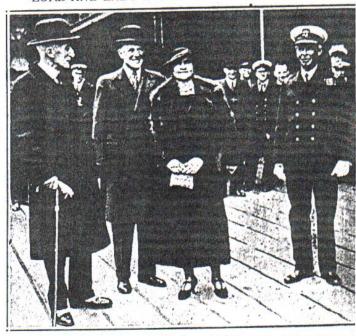

The was real thankful to get him at last. There was a time she was afraid he wouldn't come back from the west. I, warned her. You may be sure he'll disappoint you,' I told her. He's always disappointed people. Everyone expected him to die afore he was a year old but you see he's allve yet.' When he bought the old Holly place I warned her again. I'm afraid that well is full of typhoid,' I told her. The Holly hired man died of typhoid here fixs years ago,' They can't blame me if anything happens. Joseph Holly has some misery in his back. He thinks it's lumbing but I'm afraid it's the beginning of spinal menginitis."

"Old Uncle Joe Holly is one of the best

"Old Uncle Joe Holly is one of the best

(Continued on Next Page.)

LORD AND LADY WILLINGDON RETURN HOME

Marquess and Marchioness of Willingdon and their son, Lord Ratendone, on their return to London from India, at the end of Lord Willingdon's term as Viceroy. At the right is Captain Harrison of the S.S. Strathmore, the vessel on which they made the voyage.

Martha Mackay this afternoon and she was feeting feverish and all out in some kind of a rash. 'Looks to me as though you had the measles,' I told her. 'Likely they'll Ernestine. "Not that I mind her, of course, leave you almost blind. Your family all had weak eyes.' I thought she ought to be prepared. Her mother lan't well either. I'm afraid it's a growth. 'And if you have to have an operation and take chloroform,' I... she was always laughing but she sked told her, 'I'm afraid you'll never come out of it. Remember you're a Hillis and the lillises all had weak hearts. Your father died of heart failure you know."

"At eighty-seven,' said thebecea whisking away a plate.
"And you know five score and ten is the Bible limit," said Aunt Chatty cheerfully.
Cousin Ernestine helped herself to a third Bible limit," said Aunt Chatty cheerfully.
"So King David said, Charlotte, but I'm marrying a minister for love. It seems so many the said and the strain will come out in his family.

"So King David said, Charlotte, but I'm marrying a minister for love. It seems so in the night as in the day. Ah, there ain't "What is Jane Goldwin doing with hermany like her. I was down at Andy self this winter?" asked Aunt Kate. "Sue Bugle's helping them with the cooking for ham't been in town for a long time."

"Ah, poor Jane! She's just pining away the wedding and when I come downstair on the wedding morning If there wasn'l ranny eating an egg for her breakfast... and her getting married that day! My poor dead sister never et a thing for three days before she was married. And after her husband died we was afraid she was mever going to eat again. There are times when I feel I can't understand the Buglerany longer." any longer.'

"Is it true that Jean Young is going to be married again?" asked Aunt Kate.

"I'm afraid so. Of course Fred Young is supposed to be dead but I'm dreadful frind he'll turn up yet. You could never trust that man. She's going to marry Ira Itoherts. I'm afraid he's only merrying her to make her happy. His uncle Philip once wanted to marry me, but I see to him, see I. 'Bugle I was born and Bugle I will die. Marringe is a leap in the dark,' see I. 'and I nin't going to be drug into it. There has been an awful lot of weddings in Lowvale this winter. I'm afraid there'll be funerals all summer to make up for it. It often runs that way if you've noticed. Annie Edwards and Chris Hunter were one of the couples. I'm afraid they won't be as fond of each other in a few years as they are now. I'm afraid she was just swept off her feet by his dashing ways. His Uncle Hiram was crazy... he beliefthe was a dog for yea.s."
"If he did his own barking nobody need have grudged him the fun of it," said

There is no guess work in the milling of Purity Flour. Twice-daily baking tests by our laboratories ensure even, dependable and uniform quality. Enjoy the finest cakes, pastry, rolls or bread you ever tasted. "Purity" goes farther.

PURITY FLO Best for all your Baking

ORLD-WIIDE GATHERING OF RURAL WO

At the Triennial Conference of the Asso ciated Countrywomen of the World, now meeting in Washington, D.C., Mrs. Alfred Watt, the Canadian woman responsible for starting the Women's Institutes in Britain, is presiding.

The honorary president of the organiza-tion is the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, and there are vice-presidents and officers from the United States, Wales, officers from the United States, Wales, Australia, Germany, France, Norway, South Africa, Ceylon, East Africa. Practically every country in the world has affiliated organizations in the Associated Country-national associations, the International women of the World, including three inter-national associations, the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, Italy; the International Labor Office, Geneva; the League of Nations, Geneva.

Organizations of rural women from twenty-nine different countries are now affiliated with the Associated Country Women of the World.

England has fourteen member organizations, Australia six, Ceylon one, Czechoslovakia three, Denmark two, East Africa one, The Netherlands one, New Zealand two, Norway one, Nyasaland one, Palestine one, Poland one, Roumania one, Scotland one, South Africa six, Southern Rhodesia one, South Africa aix, Southern Rhodesia one, Esthonia one, Finland two, France one, Germany one, India one, Ireland two, Latvia one, Sweden one, Switzerland four, United States ten, Wales two, Yugo-Slavia one. Canada has ten, including the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, the Alberta Women's Institutes, the Federated Women's Institutes of British Columbia, Women's Institute of British Columbia, Women's Institute of Manitoba, New Brunawick Federation of Women's Institutes, Federated Women's Institutes, Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario. Women's Institutes of Quebec, Cercles Fermieres, Quebec, Saskatchewan Homentese.

Fermieres, Quebec, Saskatchewan Home-makers' Ciuba.
Mrs. Watt, the president, has had an interesting career. A graduate of the University of Toronto, she married a doctor and went to British Columbia, where she got her first contact with Women's Institutes. On the death of her husband ahe went to England with her two sohs. During the war officials were perpiexed to find a means of contact with the agriculturist for the promotion of production phopsgands and is was here that Mrs. Watt stepped into the breach, organizing the first 'Women's

Today there are over 5,000 Institutes. Institutes in Engiand alone, and Mrs. Watt has been awarded the Gold Medal of Merit by the government of France in apprecia-tion of her work among the tural women

In the beginning the English Institutes In the beginning the English Institutes were fostered by the government, but later it was decided that more useful work could be accomplished if they were quite independent, and today they have their own headquarters and carry on a responsible work. The Institutes in Scotland are also a power in the land. A national meeting of the British Institutes is held at Albert light Institutes as held at Albert light. of the British Institutes is held at Albert Hall, London, every year, and this year they will celebrate their twenty-first anni-versary. In trying to better life among the rural women they have developed all home-making arts, handicrafts, fur working, fur-making arts, handierafts, fur working, fur-niture making and repairs, drama and musical festivals, etc.

In Norway, the results of their propa-gands for the use of more milk has met with splendid success. This has not only applied to schools but to the general public, and in some of the principal cities are very up to date, modernistic "milk bars."

In each country, the problems of the rural

In each country the problems of the rural people have been considered by these women's organizations, with the view to making life better, more wholesome, more

Prom the one Institute organized in Stony Creek, in 1897, there are now 2,710 Women's Institutes in Canada with a membership of nearly 71,000 women. In England there are 300,000 women in the Institute of the In tutes, as well as the thousands in other

The organization meeting of the Associated Countrywomen of the World was held in Vienna, and since then triennial meetings have been held in Paris and Stockholm. This is the first time the representatives have gathered in America.
Following the convention in Washington, the delegates will be entertained in Canada.

MISS MUCH-AFRAID

(Continued from Page Twenty,)

men in the world," said Rebecca Dew, bringing in a replenished teapot.
"Oh, he's good," said Cousin Ernestine lugubriously, "Too good, I'm afraid his sons will all go to the bad. It turns out like that so often. No, thank you, Kate, won't have any more tea. Well, mebbe that so often. No, thank you, Kate. I won't have any more tea. Well, mebbe a macaroon. They don't lie heavy on the stomach but I'm afraid I've et far too much. I must be taking French leave for I'm afraid it'il be dark afore I get home. I don't want to get my feet wet. I've had something travelling from my arm to my lower limbs all winter. Night after night I've laid awake with It. Ah, nobody knows what I've been through. I was determined to git up to see you once more for I'm what I've been through. I was determined to git up to see you once more for I'm afraid I won't be here another spring. But you've both failed terrible so you may go afore me yet. Ah, well, it's hest to go while some of your own's left to lay you out. You look awful washed out, Miss Shirley," she concluded, as Anne helped her on with her coat. "I'm afraid people with red hair never have real strong constitutions."

"I think my constitution is all right," smileu Anne. "I have a touch of sore throat tonignt, that's all, Miss Bagle."
"Ah!" Another of Cousin Expesting's dark

"Ah!" Another of Cousin Ernestine's dark forebodings came to her. "You want to watch that. The symptoms of diptheria and tonslitts are exactly the same till the third But there's one consolation spared an awful lot of trouble if you be spared an awful lot of froutie in your die young."

"Dear Gilbert," Anne wrote that night, "Tm afraid I'll end up in the poorhouse ... I'm afraid none of my pupila will pass their finals ... Mr. Hamilton's dog barked at me Saturday night and I'm afraid I'll have hydrophobia . . . I'm afraid my hair ian't afburn after all . . . I'm afraid I'll have a mole on the end of my hose when I'm fifty . . . I'm afraid I'll find a mouse in my bed tonight . . I'm afraid you got engaged to me just because I was always around

"No, dearest, I'm not crazy . . . not yet . . . it's only that Cousin Ernestine Bugle is catching. I know now why Rebecca Dew has always referred to her as 'Miss Much-Afraid.' The poor soul has borrowed so much trouble that she is hopelessly in so much trouble that she is hopelessly in debt to fate. Gilbert, derling, don't let's ever be afraid of things. It's such dreadful slavery. Let's be daring and adventurous and expectant. Let's dance to meet life and all it cam bring us, even if it brings scads of trouble and typhold and twins. It you ever see signs of cowardice in me just say 'Cousin Ernestine Bugle' to me and watch me smile."

FLOODS MAKE GIRL TRUANT

Summoned to court in Clogher, Irish Free State, for not complying with a school attendance order concerning his daughter, Robert Fleming, of Mullbaney, said he and his family lived in a house "like Nosh's Ark," as they were almost surrounded by floods in the winter, If the child attempted to go to school she, would be drowned.

RED ROSE

"is good tea"

GOOD 40 years ago

GOOD today

NEW FASTR-ACTING "NO-SCRUB" SOAP

Changes All at Ideas of Laundry Soap Performance

MADE

The makers of gentle Ivorya now bring you this new "no-scrub" soap that 'lly safe!

So now millions who fears use old-type harsh "no-scrub" scaps before, anding new freedom from washday drudgery in amazing discovery, ()XYINH

Oxynot, is the result of mented process which makes mild, gentle soap nfaster acting... a formula which makes it 2 times whiter washing than less modern soaps, bual test.

It soaks clothes clean in xl time . . . just 15 minutes' soaking to the tul And white clothes what so white you'll be and. Even the grimlest spots come snowy white wi gentle rub!

Yet Oxydot is safe! So safe that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh! Even, sheer cotton prints have been washed 100 consecutive times in Oxydot, suds, without showing any perceptible sign of fading, And—your hands stay soft, lovely, smooth!

Thus, Oxydot comes as a boon to wash-weary housewives, by ending forever the back-breaking acrubbing and boiling, and cutting hours from wash-ing time!

Oxydot, is economical, too. One package often does twice the work—gives twice the suds—lasts twice as long as old-fashloned soops. Get Oxydot from your dealer today. You'll be glad you did.

1 14

Multiplies CANADASOOTIMES IN SUDS

Really S

THE HEW

LAUNDRY SOAP